Key visual by Akiko Nakayama

Dokyo, a Buddhist priest, was born in Yao 1,300 years ago and rose to paramourcy in Japan. In Japanese history, he is known as a person of conflicting public images; some believe that he was an evil villain, while others consider him a super hero. This performing arts spectacle features the lives of Dokyo and his contemporaries in Yao, combining brilliant alive painting projected on the whole stage with dance and music.
